STIRS AUDIENCE BY STRONG TALK

A. S. Watkins a Prohibitionist Because He Is a Christian.

BELIEVES IN HELPING WEAK

Says His Politics Is a Part of His Religion and He Believes in Mixing Them.

The First Methodist church was crowded last evening when A. S. Watkins of Wilmore, Ky., candidate for vice president on the prohibition ticket in 1908, lectured on the temperance situation. He is in town en route east from a prohibition campaign in California. In the course of his address, Mr. Watkins said: "The difference between a prohibitionist and a temperance man is: A temperance man is one who is a total abstainer from the use of intoxicating liquors. A prohibitionist is a temperance man who thinks that which is injurious to him is also injurious to others. I am a prohibitionist for several reasons. I am a prohibitionist because I am a Christian. By the word Christian I mean someone, which covers every phase of human life. 'We read that politics and religion should not be mixed. My politics and religion is a part of myself. I say mix politics with religion when the politics are of the right kind and when the religion is for the uplifting and betterment of mankind. I am a prohibitionist because I am a preacher. Every community holds up the minister above every one else in the community. By the word minister I mean one who is called to find the minister of the community on their side. 'Today could sell his influence to the United States brewers' association for ten times what I am getting out of the prohibition movement. The preacher must view politics from the moral standpoint. Today the moral standard is built upon the almighty dollar. Do not think that the government would go bankrupt if prohibition were nationalized. I am a prohibitionist because I am a father. The great difficulty of legislation today is that the legislators forget that they are fathers. In the United States Congress they will quibble for hours over the duty on hairpins or some other trinket, but they have no time to talk about the protection of the boy and the girl. I wish some one would be like Jesus and lead a little child into the United States Congress and say, 'Here is the subject for your legislation.' I am a prohibitionist because I want a question in this government as big as the government itself. To me there is no north or south, no east or west, it is all one great country. 'QUESTION CAN BE SETTLED. 'It takes a good man to make a speech in favor of the saloon, but any old plug can make a speech against the saloon. I am a prohibitionist because I want a question which can be settled. The temperance question is a practical question of the day and for all of it if the people so choose. We hear the statement that prohibition does not prohibit. Prohibition laws are easier to enforce than regulations. It is harder to close a saloon for eight hours and allow it to stay open 16 than it is to close it for 16 and allow it to stay open eight. It is easier to vote against the saloon than it is to vote for it. I am a prohibitionist because I have given prohibition has succeeded, and with a whole chance it would succeed as no other law has succeeded. The speaker closed by urging his hearers to cast their ballot as they thought best, declaring that many a man is a temperance thinker who is not a temperance voter."

BATTERY IS AT DRILL

Breaking in Horses to Fine Points of Artillery Service.

The First battery, under Captain Webb, camped Sunday evening on the high school campus, and today the drivers and horses are drilling in preparation for the Wyoming encampment. As the horses are all green this year, there is considerable work to be done. The horses of the Signal corps and mounted staff and infantry officers will be brought to the camp today morning. Master Signal Electrician F. J. Burkhardt of the Signal corps and three infantrymen left Sunday night for Dale Creek station on the Union Pacific to set up and load the escort wagon, preparatory to the hike to the scene of operations. Sunday was a busy day at the state army, where the various commands will meet Tuesday afternoon, for marching to the depot will be necessary. The load will be completed this afternoon.

Feeling bad? Bathe at Saitair.

TO OPEN PLAYGROUND.

Thursday Night to See Inauguration of First Frolic Spot.

By next Thursday night, six swings, six teeter-totters, two merry-go-rounds, two giant strides and a number of sand boxes will be in place about 100 yards north of the pond in Liberty park; and under the direction of Miss Emma Ritter, as supervisor, the life of the first public playground for children in Salt Lake City will be begun. At the opening, a program will be rendered which will include speeches by Mayor Brandford and O. W. Powells and various musical selections. The site decided upon was selected on account of its pleasant shade, and facilities for the formation of wading pools. The Utah Building & Manufacturing company has the contract for the erection of the apparatus.

These matters were all decided at the meeting of the playgrounds' committee Saturday evening, at which time the following were present: George Y. Wallace, Miss Kate Williams, J. E. Dooley, Mrs. W. North, Capt. M. W. Dooley, Mrs. C. E. Richards, Mrs. Mary P. Loomis, Miss Ida Hanauer, Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Hayward.

REPUBLICANS WILL GATHER AT SALT AIR

Outing Planned for This Month at Meeting Held Saturday Night.

The political ball will be given a start on its fall rolling by an outing to be given at Saitair by the Young Men's Republican club, some time during the present month, the exact time to be decided on later. The plan to thus open the season was decided at a meeting of the members of the Young Men's Republican club held in the sheriff's office in the city and county building Saturday night, about 50 members being present. It is planned by means of the proposed outing to bring together the city and county Republicans, as well as those from other parts of the state. The Utah congressional delegation will be asked to address the gathering and an effort will be made to induce Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, who is coming west as the personal ambassador and representative of President Taft to inquire into the political situation, to deliver an address. Senator C. D. Clark of Wyoming may also be present. In the absence of President John M. Hayes, Vice President Harry S. Joseph presided. Arthur E. Graham was named as secretary, this action being rendered necessary by the absence in Washington, D. C., of Parley Jensen, who was the secretary of the club. Chairman Joseph then named the following committees to arrange for the Saitair outing:

Arrangements—W. H. Tobias, George Wilson, T. A. Callister, S. A. Stanford, Arthur E. Graham, Dr. F. E. Straup and E. R. Morgan; program and advertising—John F. Bowman, W. E. Vignus, George Davis, John James, Henry Cobb, D. H. Parley, James S. Gabbott. This provided for one representative of each of the city precincts and two men from the county on each of the committees. After the regular meeting the committees organized by naming T. A. Callister as chairman of the committee on arrangements, and John F. Bowman as head of the committee on program and advertising.

ELEPHANTS FORM BRASS BAND.

Greatest Animal Act in the World With Barnum and Bailey Circus.

A brass band of elephants is the latest achievement in the art of training animals. It is one of the striking features which will be seen with the Barnum and Bailey show on Monday.

These elephants do not merely make a noise on the instruments of a brass band, but certainly better human band. They get real harmony out of them. The audience may easily recognize their notes, and they are selected from among the old songs that everybody knows. They play "Home, Sweet Home," and "The Last Rose of Summer," perhaps not as well as Sousa's band can, but certainly better human band. They are rendered by the average village band. One big elephant sounds all the regulation bugle calls as a prelude to a march number. The big drummer used to be a high foundation from among the old songs that everybody knows. They play "Home, Sweet Home," and "The Last Rose of Summer," perhaps not as well as Sousa's band can, but certainly better human band. They are rendered by the average village band.
